Leith Hill Musical Festival

March-April

2012

Superb concerts, exciting competitions, a unique tradition & atmosphere.

A three-day event in which 700 singers perform two of the most popular Requiems ever written and two contrasting and equally thrilling ancient and modern settings of the Gloria. Must be about as good as it gets, I can hardly wait! Join us if you can.

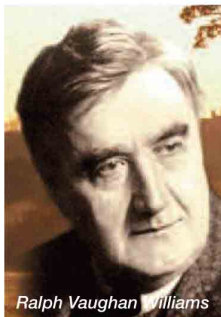

BRIAN KAY - FESTIVAL CONDUCTOR SINCE 1996

John Rutter

My association with the LHMF is a source of great pleasure and pride to me - especially when I recall the very distinguished series of past presidents of the Society. The Festival represents a living tradition of music-making which draws strength from its past achievements and always has its sights set on the future too. Choral singing has always been at the heart of our community life in Britain, and it is inspiring to see Leith Hill keeping it there.

JOHN RUTTER CBE - FESTIVAL PRESIDENT AND MUSIC COMMITTEE MEMBER

Ralph Vaughan Williams

The Leith Hill Musical Festival is a unique community event that takes place at the Dorking Halls in Surrey each Spring.

For audiences, it presents an opportunity to hear music performed to the highest standards and to experience the Festival buzz. For singers, there's the excitement of the choral competitions and the opportunity to combine together to perform in a concert with a professional orchestra and soloists under the baton of the inspirational conductor, Brian Kay.

The Festival was founded in 1905 by Lady Evangeline Farrer and Margaret Vaughan Williams. Ralph Vaughan Williams, Margaret's brother, was the Festival conductor from its founding until retiring in his eighties in 1954.
